

The heart's deepest desires . . .

Where do we find them?
How do we identify what we most deeply desire.
Too often, sadly, the heart's
Deepest desires are unknown
Or remain just out of sight.

The heart's deepest desires are
Connected to and bound by

The questions we ask –

Significant to all
Engaged in some way at the university.

Consider:

Amidst the tumult of assignments and relationships,
Of past and future (which constantly meet here),
Of expectations and dreams,
Great changes are underway.
For those who are undergraduates,
The differences are striking;
While you remain connected to the person
Who was a first year student in High School,
There is little resemblance –
Bodies continue to change,
Minds are filled with more knowledge and understanding,
And you are (hopefully) asking very different questions
About yourself, the world, and all around you.
For the graduate,
While some questions might be a bit more focused
And some life's issues a bit more settled,
The questions asked continue to frame
The heart's deepest desires.

Who are you? Who am I?
Where are you going? What is truly important?
How much is enough? Of what?

Let's work on these questions together:

Sundays with Grace University Lutheran Church at 8:30 or 10:30 AM and/or 6:30 PM.
University Lutheran Church of Hope at 8:30 and 10:30 AM
Trinity Lutheran Church (at Augustana's Chapel) at 8:45 or 11 AM.

Peace, friends
